Program created and edited by Joel Cohen
Early American music has been a part of The Boston Camerata’s repertoire since the beginning of our recording history. It is with a vivid interest and joy that we have, over the years, included our own North American musical heritage in our concerts and recordings, most recently in Free American Songs of Resistance and Rebellion.

This fall we progress in chronological time, bringing the narrative forward to about 1900, and focusing most intensely on the African American presence in the repertoire. The rewards of such work are great, but the challenges are mighty. Because of terrible social inequities and injustices, early written musical sources of Black songs, prior to the choir arrangements of the late nineteenth century, are far too few. What makes our enterprise possible are a few precious written songbooks, as well as the collaborative memory and ongoing oral tradition of the Black community, a source, then as now, of some of the deepest regenerative forces in American musical life.

What do we find as we open the books, and hear the singing of our neighbors? The mutual influences, both textual and musical, between the White and Black communities, are omnipresent, both in anecdotal ways, and on profound, existential levels. The English Protestant hymn texts sung in congregations of both ethnicities are of course a common, unifying bond. But those same verses can take on different levels of meaning on the lips of believers of color. “The Pilgrims,” appearing in 1801, in the very first printed African-American, text-only songbook, contains powerful, processional images of spiritual riches, superficially hidden by an aspect of material poverty. What a resonance for the freed Blacks and former slaves who sang it in Philadelphia, sixty-four years prior to the Emancipation Proclamation!

And when that same text re-appears, this time with notated music, in 1868, in an erstwhile “White” songbook, The Revivalist, we note the call-and-response format, ubiquitous in revivalist camp meetings, and so typical as well of African and African-American group singing. What dimensions of such performance style are “European,” and what “African”? Let the scholars argue, as we turn to the music itself, entering wholeheartedly into the deeply felt expressivity of these songs.

Similarly, the crosscurrents in the powerful spiritual, “Roll Call,” seem to come from shared experiences – the military metaphors of the recently-ended Civil War – and from the often diverse “camp meeting” style in which the leader or leaders exhort the congregation to a high level of enthusiasm. Our tune this afternoon is drawn from the “White” songbook The Revivalist of 1868, but a still-living African-American variant of it has been shared with us by the Honorable Milton Wright, whose knowledge of the Black musical heritage is unsurpassed.

The roots of some “American” songs are very ancient indeed. The text to the apocalyptic “Judicii Signum” is attributed to Saint Augustine, bishop of Numidian North Africa in the fifth century. The tune for it that we sing for you was omnipresent in Spain and Provence in the twelfth century. Astonishingly, the DNA of those poetic images, and of that melody, persist in many American spirituals about the Judgement Day, most extraordinarily perhaps in “Sinner Man,” in which the melodic cell a-f-d is recombined and varied over the harmonic pattern of a Renaissance ground bass, the passamezzo antico. Who are the parents of this beautiful, multiracial child? Insofar as we claim citizenship in the family of man, the infant is ours. Like so much of what we perform for you today, such a song is the fruit of our common awareness of mortality, and of our common, precious, fragile humanity.

The Boston Camerata occupies a unique place in the densely populated universe of European and American early music ensembles. Camerata's distinguished rank stems partly from its longevity: founded in 1954, when the field of endeavor was in its infancy, as an adjunct to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts' musical instruments collection, Camerata is now one of the longest-lived groups to be vigorously functioning up to the present day.

But length of service, by itself is not sufficient to account for Camerata's preeminence, nor are its numerous distinctions including the American Critics' Circle Award, grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, residencies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Tennessee, and the Grand Prix du Disque. The Boston Camerata has achieved its eminence in large part because of its willingness to approach, with consistent success, many kinds of historical repertoires from many centuries, from the early Middle Ages to the nineteenth century, and from many places and cultures, stretching from the Middle East to early New England, with numerous intermediate stops in Renaissance and Baroque Europe and Latin America. Directed from 1969 to 2009 by Joel Cohen, and from 2009 to the present day by Anne Azéma, the Boston Camerata has continued to create, over more than a half-century of activity, a large number of concert and recorded productions. These typically combine scholarship, much of it original, with high performance standards maintained by a distinguished roster of outstanding vocal soloists and instrumentalists. Camerata's productions regularly combine dramatic flair with a certain humane, overarching perspective on the role music has played in (wo)mankind's search for meaning and fulfillment. Camerata's signature approach, as embodied in its touring, pedagogy, and media projects, has won the ensemble many listeners and followers on five continents as the ensemble presents new projects while maintaining in active repertoire many of its historic achievements.

Camerata's diary in recent seasons has reflected intense activity. Borrowed Light, a music and dance production in collaboration with the Tero Saarinen Company of Helsinki, Finland, toured extensively, with over eighty performances from 2004 to 2015 in the United States (Brooklyn Academy, Jacob’s Pillow Festival), Europe, (France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Scandinavia, Netherlands) the United Kingdom, and Australasia (Australia and New Zealand). The film of this production has been seen over twenty times on European cable television in 2018, 2019, and 2020. The ensemble has appeared in concert at the Théâtre de la Ville, Paris (2015), the Alcântara Festival in Brasil (2016), The Metropolitan Museum The Cloisters (2017), Rockefeller Chapel Chicago (2018). La Philharmonie de Paris (2018). Anne Azéma’s innovative staged productions include The Night’s Tale, narrating a medieval tournament in France, which was first presented in France and Luxembourg (2007), then performed in Boston to great acclaim (2016), with further touring in 2017 and 2018 (Switzerland, Holland, France), and in the US in 2020. Azéma’s reimagining of the Play of Daniel (premiered in 2014) is by now an integral part of the Camerata’s public face to the world. Further tours of Daniel took place in North America (Canada and the US Midwest) in late 2014, continuing in 2017, 2018, 2020. Collaborations with local choirs (both children and adults) and with young professionals-in-training in both Europe and the United States continue to be a distinctive feature of the company (2016–2020 touring seasons).

Two new media projects were released in 2019: Treasures of Devotion: European Spiritual Song ca 1500 (Music & Arts -Naxos); and Free America! Early Songs of Revolt and Rebellion, which renews a collaboration of the ensemble with Harmonia Mundi. In late 2020, Camerata’s trailblazing, made-for-streaming production of Henry Purcell’s Dido and Aeneas earned international acclaim as it was viewed by music lovers on five continents. A new Harmonia Mundi project, A Medieval Christmas – Hodie Christus Natus Est, was just issued in late October.

ANNE AZÉMA
ARTISTIC DIRECTOR / MEZZO-SOPRANO

Recently returned from a late-summer solo concert tour in Europe, French-born vocalist, scholar and stage director Anne Azéma today directs The Boston Camerata in its first live performance since the beginning of the pandemic in 2020. This newest program, We'll Be There!, is the seventeenth original production she has led since assuming the directorship of The Boston Camerata in 2008.

Anne Azéma has broadened the ensemble’s vision to include widely praised music theater productions. Her 2007 music theater creation (The Night’s Tale – Le Tournoi de Chauvency), based on a 14th century French narrative, is in continued demand. In November 2014, she edited, directed and staged The Play of Daniel to critical and public acclaim; the production was successfully reprised in 2017, 2018 and 2020. In late 2020, in the midst of the pandemic, her trailblazing, made-for-streaming production of Henry Purcell’s Dido and Aeneas earned international attention as it was viewed by music lovers on five continents.

Recent Camerata recordings under her leadership include Treasures of Devotion (2018) for Music and Arts, Free America (2019) for Harmonia Mundi, and the just-released A Medieval Christmas: Hodie Christus Natus Est, also on Harmonia Mundi.

Ms. Azéma’s activity as a recitalist has led her to create four solo CD recordings, and to present her original programs of medieval solo song to audiences in North and South America, Europe, the Middle East and Asia. She is currently collaborating intensively with a Canadian software company on a bilingual, medieval-themed video game for the international market.

Among Anne Azéma’s teaching activities are master classes, seminars, and residencies at conservatories and universities here and abroad (NYU, Harvard, MIT, Brandeis, Boston University, Schola Cantorum Baselm Cini Foundation). She has contributed articles to scholarly and general audience publications. She is currently a faculty member at the Longy School of Music of Bard College, which is a co-producer of today’s program. Ms. Azéma was the Robert M. Trotter Distinguished Visiting Professor at the University of Oregon (Eugene) in 2012 and again in 2020. Ms. Azéma was a co-recipient of the Grand Prix du Disque, the Edison Prize and is a Chevalier des Arts et des Lettres of the French Republic.

His interest in oral traditions and folklore have informed many of his early music projects, recorded and live. Mr. Cohen’s work with Shaker music includes both extensive archival research, and active collaboration with the remaining Shaker community in Sabbathday Lake, Maine. He is the Music Director of the Camerata Mediterranea, an international, inter-cultural institute of musical exchanges, devoted to research, dialogue, and pedagogy involving the diverse musical civilizations of the Mediterranean basin, Christian, Jewish, and Muslim. CHRISTMAS IN THE MIDDLE AGES

Drawing on a wide variety of sources, mingling liturgical Latin with French, English, Italian and Iberian vernaculars, these magnificent songs, hymns and processions show the multitude of ways in which the birth of Christ was celebrated in medieval times. The trio of female singers is accompanied by harp, fiddle, bells and wind instruments: together they touchingly evoke all the tenderness, hope and joy of medieval Christmas songs.
